- If you wish to visit the Netherlands for a short period of time, you must obtain a visa prior to entry if you come from a country with a visa requirement for entering the Netherlands.
- A short-stay Schengen visa allows the holder to transit through or remain in Dutch territory and all other Schengen States for a maximum period of three months (90 days) within any period of 180 days.
- Visiting more than one Schengen country?
You will have to obtain the Schengen visa from the country where the main purpose of travel lies.
- When travelling to more than one Schengen country, submit your application with the country where you will be staying the longest. In case of equally long stays, you must apply with the Schengen country where you arrive first.

Business Visa

13th – 15th August

- A business visa is required if during any portion of your visit you intend to conduct business or commercial activities, e.g. meetings, conferences, training.
- Such a visa can only be issued to travellers not being paid for work by an entity within the Netherlands. If you intend to undertake paid work in the Netherlands, you will need to obtain a work permit.
- During which period can you travel?
The fields 'From' and 'Until' on your visa tell you how long your visa is valid for.
'From': the first day that you can enter the Schengen area
'Until': the last day by which you must leave the Schengen area
- Travelling with children
If you apply for a short-stay Schengen visa for a minor (child under 18 years of age) there are specific requirements for the documents to be submitted (see the checklist).
- When a child travels with one parent (or alone)
